Highlights

Keynote addresses by leading educators and scholars on conference themes

Short presentation sessions by school and tertiary educators, academics and emerging scholars from the Asia-Pacific region

Discussion panels for inclusive participation on a number of key educational issues

An optional Sydney Harbour cruise on Friday 17 October, 2014 aboard the Nari Nawi, learning about the Australian Aboriginal histories and cultures, or a G’day Sydney post conference tour, scheduled for Monday 20 October 2014, for a contrasting examination of colonial Sydney, all at reasonable rates. Everyone is welcome.

Very special rates for pre-service teachers and members of professional teachers’ associations.

Conference themes

Global citizenship: nature of global understanding, and action and participation as citizens of a diverse world

Curriculum innovation: models, approaches and practice, and the influence of government policy, organisations, technology, current events and issues

Pre-service teacher education: pathways, outcomes and challenges of design and delivery, and the changing role of the tertiary educator

Educational research in the twenty-first century: thoughts, ideas, experiences, reports and results for leaders by leaders.

Conference aims

PCC members and participants will:

- develop a greater understanding of, and capacity, to address the issues relating to global citizenship in a changing and diverse world
- critically analyse curriculum development and implementation and the different pedagogical influences in the Asia-Pacific region
- examine and discuss change affecting pre-service teacher education
- delve into discussion and share educational research topics, and consider outcomes and potential implications for education throughout the Asia-Pacific region
- meet and network with educators from the Asia-Pacific region for project collaboration, capacity building, and an exploration of common issues and experiences.
